SWEEPING CHARGE OF CORRUPTION IS MADE IN INDIANA

Former Klansman Charges Wholesale Intrigue in Indiana Primary Election

REQUEST MADE FOR PROBE INTO OKLAHOMA CAMPAIGN

Senator Watson and High Officials of Klan are Named in New Testimony

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 25, (AP)—An amazing tale of political intrigue in Indiana through which ran the names of Senator James E. Watson, Republican candidate for re-election and high officials of the Ku Klux Klan, was related here today to the senate camaign fund committee by Ralph D. Bradford of Crown Point, Ind., who conceded that he was an ex-Klan official, and that some of his information was second-hand.

He made charges of wholesale political corruption in East Chicago and Indiana Harbor during the Republican primary last May, and asserted that there had been a general shaking-down of bootleggers and dive-keepers by peace officers.

He said he had been informed by Walter F. Bossert of Indiana that Senator Watson had sat in on a conference of Klan officials at Washington, at which the resignaton of Bossert as Indiana grand dragon had been forced by Dr. Hiram W. Evans, imperial wizard of the Ku Klux Klan.

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 25. (AP)—W. M. Darnell, defeated Democratic candidate for governor of Oklahoma, today sent a telegram to Senator James A. Reed, chairman of the senate campaign funds committee, asking an investigation of the Ku Klux Klan in Oklahoma. No reply to the telegram has been made.

STATES WIN IN INSURANCE CASE

Politicies Must be Placed Through Authorized Resident Agents Says Court

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. (AP)—The right of the states to invalidate insurance on property not placed through authorized resident agents, was sustained today by the supreme court in five cases from Ohio, Maine and Wisconsin.

The suits all arose out of the placing of fire and theft insurance by the Chrysler sales corporation with the Palmetto Fire Insurance Company of South Carolina, upon all automobiles sold on the deferred payment or installment plans.

The Crysler company placed the insurance without regard to the wishes of the purchasers for the protection of the distributing or dealers and the banks or commercial companies which financed the purchase of the machines.

PRESIDENT HAS POWER TO REMOVE OWN APPOINTEES

United States Supreme Court Makes Far-Reaching Ruling Monday

RELATIONS OF SENATE AND PRESIDENT INVOLVED

Court Holds Appointees Can be Removed Without Senate O. K.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25, (AP)—A history-making opinion, upholding the power of the president to remove without the consent of the senate, officers appointed by him, and without the advice or consent of that body, was handed down today by the supreme court.

The decision, six to three, stated that the president had full discretionary powers in removing such officers with the exception of a few judges, notwithstanding any restrictions congress might impose.

The case, involving removal by President Wilson of Frank S. Myers as postmaster at Portland, had proved a focal point upon which the legislative and executive branches of the government had come to a notable trial of constitutional rights before the highest court.

So important was the question that the court designated Senator Pepper of Pennsylvania, a former president of the American Bar association, to represent congress in argument of the case.

The point directly at issue was whether congress had exceeded its powers when, in the act authorizing presidential appointment of first, second and third class postmasters "with the consent of the senate."

The court added that in case of a removal from office, it was not necessary for the president promptly to submit to the senate the name of a successor, and that he could hold the office vacant indefinitely.

It was held, however, that congress could control the removal of minor officials not appointed by the president.

Justices Holmes, Brandeis and McReynolds dissented from the opinion of the majority. Justice McReynolds read a dissenting opinion in which he described the findings of the majority as revolutionary. Under it, he said, the president would have authority to remove members of all commissions, although it had been supposed they could only be removed for malfeasance in office. He argued that the right of presidential removal thus established would extend even to the comptroller general, about whose tenure congress had sought to throw every safe guard.

The majority opinion, read by Chief Justice Taft, contained an exhaustive historical account of the relationship between congress and the president, including the circumstances of the passage of the act in qustion, just after the civil war.

"This court has repeatedly laid down the principle," it said, "that a contemporaneous legislative exposition of the constitution, when the founders of our government and framers of our constitution, were actively participating in public affairs, and acquiesced in for a long term of years, fixes the construction to be given its provisions."

First Frost of the Season Prevented by Stiff Breeze

THREE DEATHS CAUSED IN NEW YORK BY STORM

Semi-Tropical Hurricane Injures Several People and Damages Property

NEW YORK, Oct. 25, (AP).—Striking with an almost tropical fury and suddenness, a windstorm that at times reached hurricane force, today raked sections of New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and Rhode Island. Three persons were killed in the vicinity of this city, many others were injured and considerable damage to property was caused in a score of cities and towns of the five states, and harbor and coastwise shipping was affected.

A man and a woman were killed aboard a steam freighter when the vessel capsized in the Hudson during the storm, and the boiler exploded. Nine others on the craft narrowly escaped death.

Mrs. Anna Pettit was killed in Hempstead, L. I., by a limb torn from a tree by the wind. A child which she was wheeling in a buggy had a fractured skull, and is not expected to live.

The harbor was lashed into seething waves and the gale snatched from its escort of three tugs the 4,000 ton freighter Farraby and drove it like an axe into the end of the New York Central Lines pier at 70th street and North River.

WILL INVESTIGATE DEATH OF SIX AT ATTORNEY'S HOME

Probe Starts When No Water is Found in Lungs of Body Taken from Cistern

MARION, Ill., Oct. 25. (AP)—An investigation to determine definitely whether W. O. Potter, prominent Marion attorney ended his own life Saturday night, after killing five members of his family, has been put under way by State Attorney A. O. Boswell.

Boswell today ordered fingerprints made of the victims. Potter's wife, two daughters, and two grandchildren, after the undertaker revealed that no water was found in Potter's lungs when the body was taken from a cistern.

MARION, Ill., Oct. 25. (AP)—Worry over financial reverses, ill health and the loss of his position as United States district attorney four months ago are ascribed as the reasons for a sudden fit of insanity late Saturday night that drove W. O. Potter, 56, prominent southern Illinois attorney, to kill five of his family and then end his own life.

After his victims had retired, Potter crushed the skulls of each, one of them a baby three weeks old, with a furnace shaker, and then ended his own life by hurling himself into a cistern at the rear of his home. The bodies were found by a son, Morris Potter, 26, who returned several hours later from a trip to a neighboring town.

The victims were the wife, Myrtle, 52; two daughters, Elrose, 26, and Mrs. Lucille White, 28, and the latter's two children, Phyllis, 4, and Cynthia, three weeks old. Mrs. White was the wife of Dr. Gilbert White, of Miami, Fla., another of the White children, Gilbert, Jr., 6, had been visiting at the Potter home but recently had gone to visit a grandmother at Olney, Ill., testimony before a coroner's jury, which yesterday returned a verdict of murder and suicide, brought out that Potter, who serves part of his term as United States district attorney at East St. Louis under Federal Judge English, now facing impeachment proceedings, brooded under the belief that his official actions were under investigation as well as those of the judge.

GOVERNOR WILL NOT ISSUE CALL FOR REDUCTION

Says Farmer Gets too Much Advice, Criticising Memphis Conference

URGES THE "COW, SOW AND THE HEN" PROGRAM

Says Farmers Must Work Out Own Salvation and Must "Keep Cool"

AUSTIN, Oct. 25, (AP)—Expressing the opinion "the farmer is getting too much advice from those who either lack experience in cotton raising or who are acting too fast," Governor Miriam A. Ferguson stated Monday she would not at this time issue a proclamation calling on the farmers of Texas to reduce their cotton acreage.

The governor's declaration came in reply as to whether she would issue a proclamation calling for a 25 per cent acreage reduction and designating a Cotton Acreage Reduction Week in line with recommendations of the recent Memphis cotton conference.

"I shall not issue any proclamation of this kind at this time," she said. "As a cotton farmer, as well as an official, I do not think I am justified in issuing such a proclamation at this time, as conditions may so change the situation as to make such advice improper.

Too Much Advice

"I think the farmer is getting too much advice from those who either lack experience in cotton raising or who are acting too fast in solving this great crisis that confronts the cotton raisers. For months the Dallas News has been shouting loud and long urging the farmer to raise more cotton on less acres and now they have changed front and are urging the farmer to plant less acres and I suppose they want him to raise more cotton. They have not explained the apparent inconsistency of their position.

"It is several months yet until planting time and nobody knows for sure just how much cotton will finally show up for market. I am sure there is going to be a great damage to cotton on account of bad weather and continued rains and a great per cent of the crop is bound to be low grade.

"When all these facts are in, it may be apparent that cotton will bring around 12½ cents per pound for the next crop, if such is the case, then I ask what crop would these self-appointed advisers who are resoluting and telling the farmers what to do. What will become of the small farmer who can only get credit on a cotton crop for his supplies when he tells his banker or his merchant that his cotton crop will be cut from fifty acres to thirty-seven and one-half acres?

"Talk is cheap, but facts are facts. We hear a great deal about the willingness of the Federal Reserve bank and the big bankers to help the poor farmers, but the people had just as well know the facts now, and that is that the Federal Reserve bank will not loan a dollar on cotton unless it is in a bonded warehouse and with the BIRMINGHAM, Ala., Oct. 25.(AP)—Alabama bankers, planters and business interests here today agreed to organize a million-dollar finance corporation to hold 2,000,000 bales of the state's cotton crop for eighteen months or longer. This action was taken at the suggestion of Eugene Meyer, personal representative of President Coolidge and A. C. Williams of the federal loan board.

The conference also agreed to wage a vigorous campaign to cut next year's cotton acreage 25 per cent.

HEAVY BUYING IN TEXTILE CENTERS AVERTS DECLINE

Market Sags Perceptibly After Government Estimate but Closes Higher

LARGEST CROP EVER GROWN IS PREDICTED

Seventeen and a Half Million Bales Forecasted; Prices Reach Low Level

NEW YORK, Oct. 25, (AP)—Heavy buying by cotton textile manufacturers prevented serious decline in cotton prices today on publication of the department of agriculture's crop estimate, indicating a yield of 17,454,000 bales, the largest on record.

Prices crumbled about $1.50 a bale, the lowest level since 1921, on speculative selling. Immediately after the report came out, losses were recovered, and the market closed higher from 2 to 12 points net.

Largest in History

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25. (AP)—A cotton crop larger than ever before grown was produced in the south this year, the department of agriculture today placing the indicated yield of 17,454,000 bales of 500 pounds gross of about 8,243,000,000 pounds of lint cotton. This is about 643,000,000 pounds of lint more than was produced last year.

The estimate is based on conditions existing October 18, on which date 8,722,066 running bales have been ginned according to the census bureau's announcement. There was an increase of 827,000 bales in prospective production between October 1, on which the last estimate was made and October 18.

Uncertainty exists as to how much of the crop will be harvested, the crop reporting board announced in view of present low prices and scarcity of labor for picking.

This year's production was brought about by the planting of the largest acreage on record and favorable growing conditions.

Local Market Recovers

There was a drop of thirty points Monday morning after the cotton market opened following announcement of the government estimate that a total yield of 17,454,000 was indicated.

During the day, however, cotton advanced again and the market closed seven points higher than Saturday's close.

The government ginners' reports show that there were 796,988 fewer bales ginned so far this year than at the corresponding date last year.

It is claimed that these figures do not justify the big total yield that is indicated, even if all of it should be gathered. The indications are said to be that it will not all be picked.

OKLAHOMA MAN IS KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

J. L. Stowe, Fort Towson Machinist, Dies of Injuries; Companion Badly Hurt

J. L. Stowe, 27 year old machinist, who was employed at a gin at Fort Towson, Okla., was fatally injured at 6:30 o'clock Sunday evening in an automobile accident which occurred a mile north of Powderly while he and two companions were returning home from Paris in a touring car.

At the point where the accident occurred they met Philip Ludwick and C. J. White, employes of a garage on Grand avenue returning with a disabled car that was being pulled in, Ludwick driving the front car and White guiding the second one.

When the Oklahoma men met them they turned back in the road after passing the first car and cut into the trailed car, it is understood. The Oklahoma car was turned over several times on level ground and was badly wrecked.

One of Stowe's companions, Louie Hazelwood, sustained a broken collarbone and fracture of several ribs. He is a brother-in-law of Ralph Payne of Powderly, and he was taken to his home. A physician was summoned from Paris.

Emberson and Brown's ambulance brought Stowe to St. Joseph's Infirmary. He died within a few minutes after reaching the hospital. An examination showed that his skull had been fractured in one or two places and that he had sustained internal injuries. His back was also said to have been broken.

Justice of the Peace J. L. Shanklin held an inquest and found that his death was the result of an accident.

He was unmarried.

The body was taken to Fort Towson Tuesday morning for burial.

The father of Hazelwood died suddenly about a month ago as the result of heart failure while he was visiting his daughter at Powderly, and a brother of the young man died in St. Joseph's Infirmary two weeks ago from natural causes.

The invitation was accepted and a large attendance is expected, as the principal, teachers and patrons have planned to make it an exceptionally pleasant occasion.

The singing by the Lions' trio, who won distinction during the Dallas fair, will be a treat, but it will be only one of the features of the entertainment.

A cordial invitation is extended to everyone. There will be no charge for admission.

In the Kitchen with 6 Famous Cooks

FIVE WAYS TO PREPARE CHICKEN

These Are Favorite Recipes of Four Famous Cooks

(Editor's Note: This is one of a series of unusual cooking articles contributed to this paper by six famous cooks.)

Chicken is a universal favorite. Very few folks can find it in their hearts to refuse a second helping of this appetizing fowl. Four famous cooks give tempting recipes for cooking it—fricassee, fried, broiled, stewed, and soup. There's variety enough for everyone!

MRS. SARAH TYSON RORER

Mrs. Sarah Tyson Rorer, the Philadelphia cooking expert, has a recipe for a delicious chicken corn soup.

"This is an excellent dish," she says. "With a salad, coffee, and a bit of ripe cheese it makes a wholesome meal."

Chicken Corn Soup

Her directions follow: Singe, draw, and cut up as for stewing a two year old hen. Put it in a kettle, and cover with three quarts of cold water. Bring to a boil, and cook until tender—about two hours.

Remove chicken, skim the broth, and put it back on the burner. Add two medium sized onions chopped, a teaspoon of salt, dash of pepper, and a box of noodles. Add one pint of canned or fresh cut-off corn. Cover and cook 10 minutes. Add the chicken cut into small pieces. When hot, serve. If too thick, add milk to thin.

Delicious Fricassee

For chicken fricassee, made according to the recipe of Mrs. Kate B. Vaughn, Los Angeles cooking expert, select a young chicken, weighing about 3½ pounds. Season pieces of chicken with salt and pepper, dredge with flour, and fry in hot fat until brown. Place in casserole, add water and cook in hot oven, 350 degrees F. for one hour. Keep the cover on the casserole.

As They Cook It "Out West"

Pacific Coast fried chicken is delicious. You have the word of Mrs. Belle DeGraf for that. Mrs. DeGraf is a domestic science counsellor in San Francisco.

For this dish cut one medium sized young chicken as for fricassee. Sprinkle each piece with salt and pepper and dredge with flour. Heat four tablespoons butter or chicken fat in frying pan. Fry chicken until well browned. Cover with hot water. Add one tablespoon minced onion and cook until the chicken is tender, using a low flame. When chicken is done, remove to serving plate. If any liquid remains in pan, drain off in cup.

Put 2 tablespoons of butter in the pan. Add 2 tablespoons of flour. Mix until smooth, then add 2 cups of thin cream, or cream and liquid left to make 2 cups. Stir until creamy. Then add one tablespoon finely shredded green pepper, and ½ teaspoon salt. Simmer a few minutes, then pour around, not over the chicken.

To prepare the green pepper pour boiling water over it and let stand 10 minutes. Shred with scissors.

Two Southern Methods

Miss Rosa Michaelis, New Orleans domestic science specialist, comes from the south, where chicken is one of the most popular dishes. She gives two southern ways of preparing it.

For southern broiled chicken, she says, select a very young chicken. Clean, singe, and split it down the back. It will almost lie flat. Season with salt and pepper, and brush melted butter all over it. Have a broiler ready over a moderate fire. Place chicken in it, and let it broil slowly for a half hour or a little longer if the chicken is not so tender.

Turn the chicken once in a while to brown both sides. When done, place on a heated platter which has been garnished with sprigs of parsley or lettuce leaves. Pour melted butter over chicken, and serve hot.

With Brown Sauce

Chicken prepared with brown sauce is good served with rice, Miss Michaelis says. Here are the ingredients:

1 chicken
2 tablespoons lard
1 sprig each of thyme, parsley, and bay leaf
1 onion
2 tablespoons flour, salt and pepper to taste

Clean and cut chicken in small pieces. Season well with salt and pepper. Chop onion fine. Put lard into deep pot. When hot add onion and let brown. Add flour. Let this brown, and add chicken. Let simmer a few minutes with thyme, parsley, and bay leaf chopped fine. Stir often. When all is nicely brown, add 1½ pints boiling water. Stir until it begins to boil.

If necessary, add more salt and pepper. Cover and let simmer until tender (about an hour). The gizzard, liver, and heart may be cooked with sauce, and served with boiled rice.

No matter if the chicken is old or young, you can make it taste good if you choose one of these recipes.

New Toaster

It really pays to invest in a good toaster which lasts a life-time. Many hardware stores are displaying a new blue glazed toaster. It makes four evenly browned slices of toast at a time. It does not warp. Very handy too, for crisping breakfast cereals. Its handle is ever cool. It can be used with equally good results on oil, wood, coal, or gas stoves.

BARN AND CONTENTS DESTROYED BY FIRE

E. E. Crow, living between Woodland and Manchester, who raises a considerable quantity of truck and produce for the Paris market, was in the city Monday and reported that his barn was destroyed by fire Friday morning during the thunder storm. The building was set on fire by lightning.

The barn contained 125 bushels of sweet potatoes, nearly 200 bushels of corn and 300 bales of hay. There was no insurance either on the barn or the contents.

SHIPS CROSSTIES TO SPRINGFIELD

E. L. Herndon, who operates a sawmill five miles north of Emberson, was a visitor in Paris Monday. He furnishes timber to the county for building bridges and for other purposes.

He also makes crossties under contract with the Hobart Lee Tie Company, of Springfield, Mo. The ties are delivered at Arthur City.

Mr. Herndon bought the timber concession off a 500 acre tract of land nearly a year ago, since which time he has been operating his sawmill. He stated that he expected the timber supply to run his sawmill about a year longer.

Gathering Crops.

Cotton picking and corn gathering revived in earnest Monday with the return of bright weather and women and children, as well as men, were seen in the fields throughout this section, visitors reported.

Three Varieties of Pecans Growing On Same Tree

A good many residents of Paris have budded pecan trees that are bearing paper shell pecans. County Clerk J. E. Ausmus has a tree at his home on North Eighteenth street that is bearing three kinds of pecans.

Two of them are paper shell pecans of different varieties and the third are native pecans growing on one limb that was not budded. C. I. Broad, J. W. Crook and numbers of other citizens also have paper shell pecan trees.

The nuts of the paper shell pecan grow much larger than the native pecans. They are so large that crows and other birds cannot carry them away in their beaks.

A budded tree will bear two or three years after being budded, but the first year in bearing the pecans are small. The third year after being budded the nuts grow large.

SCATTERING TALK

(By W. J. MINTON)

PRESENT LOW PRICE OF COTTON —A GOOD THING—

I want to say publicly that I am GLAD that the price of cotton is LOW, also, that I believe this low price is a good thing for all of us, and I am saying this, in spite of the fact that I may get romped on for so doing by my friend Sam Hancock and some others.

We have all seen cotton lower than it is now, also "shorter", but none of us have seen ANY price that has been worth so much to us as this experience will be, and, as I say, I am glad cotton is so LOW especially so because of the effect it is having on such men as my friends Sam Hancock, and Judge A. P. Park, and H. P. Garrett, and Sam Hearon, and Dempsey Williams, and Mack Smiley and hundreds of others I could name in Lamar county, and some 10,000 more of their type all over Texas, who would have gone right on demanding that practically ALL their land be planted in cotton, just as they have been doing for the past 30 to 40 years,—but now it is going to be DIFFERENT,—and I am GLAD.

Any time Sam Hancock, and A. P. Park, and H. P. Garrett, and Sam Hearon, and Dempsey Williams, and Mack Smiley, and thousands of other men in Texas and the South, in their position financially, get stung right between the eyes with a hornet, these "boys" not only go after that particular "hornet", but they get busy and find and destroy the "nest",—and you take it from me,—that is just what is taking place right now all over the South,—these boys are looking for the "nest", and they'll find it,—in fact they have ALREADY found it.

Any time the "powers that be"—the land lords, the bankers, the commercial organizations, and the political powers get in "behind" a thing it goes over, and that is just what is taking place in this cotton-acreage reduction-movement,—and all you who know how to read the newspapers for what they really mean,—if you have been reading the State papers,—know this to be a FACT,—and that's why I say I am GLAD.

Just as certain as Sam Hancock and Jim Smith, and their associates run the First National Bank of Paris,—just that certain will the cotton acreage of Texas, and the entire South, be reduced at least 40 per cent during the next five years (and probably longer), —and never again probably, will cotton sell for less than 20 to 25 cents a pound,—and possibly MORE,—no doubt about it. If you ask "Why",—I reply, because the powers that be,— the boys that run the country, in the last analysis,—the bankers, the land lords, the commercial interests, and the politicians have WOKE up, and so DECREED,—that's WHY,—and all you who have cotton on hand, that you can possibly hold, will do well to hold it, and hold it until next summer if necessary,—because, when the next crop is planted, and the acreage shows up 40 per cent short,—which it will, then—that part of this crop unsold will bring 20 to 25 cents a pound.

Any of you who doubt my conclusions in this matter, and doubt that the cotton crop of the South will be reduced next year 40 per cent (which on this year's estimate means a reduction of next year's crop of over 6,000,000 bales),—just read that advertisement by the "Southern States Cotton Reduction Association" which appeared in the Dallas News last Sunday. It's a half page,—and not only gives the PLAN, but if you will read between the lines you can see that it is already in operation,—it's not only a State movement,—but a movement of the entire South, and the "big boys" are behind it,—and they will not only get the "hornet" but also the "nest",—and it is the biggest thing that has ever happened for the SOUTH,—and that's why I say I am GLAD. Get a copy of that advertisement and READ IT,—and then get in behind it and help put it over in LAMAR COUNTY,—along with all the other cotton growing counties of the South. Just as certain as next cotton planting time comes, just that certain will the cotton acreage be reduced 40 per cent.

And let me say this:—All you who think that cotton is the only money crop" that can be raised in Lamar county, or the South, please read that facsimile letter in the Dallas News last Sunday from J. W. McFarland of Palestine, Texas. Mr. McFarland says that he took the advice of the Dallas News last spring and reduced his cotton crop from 75 acres to 25, and instead of this other 50 acres in cotton, he now has 135 hogs, for which he has already been offered $2,000, but refused, as he expects $2,500.

Should Mr. McFarland not find ready sale for his hogs at home, he can do so in Lamar County, as Lamar has practically no hogs, albeit, there is not a place on earth where hogs can be more easily or profitably raised than in Lamar county, and every 300 pound hog now in this county is worth approximately $40, and the packing houses in Fort Worth are having to import most of the hogs they slaughter. I repeat, that the present low price of cotton is a good thing, because it has brought about a status, that will be the biggest thing that has ever happened for the South,—and I am GLAD of it,—and I am perfectly willing to endure the temporary "hard times" for the permanent "good times" that are sure to follow.

Respectfully,
W. J. MINTON

I AM GOING RIGHT AHEAD

As for my part, I am going right on pushing the plans of Good Home Investment & Loan Company, just as though we had this year a big cotton crop and had gotten a big price for it. And with the help of the "non-crying" element of Lamar county, we shall start in 1927, an 8-to-10 story "Good Home" hotel-office building, which will be completed in 1928, and will be the tallest and most beautiful building in Paris. We shall also during 1927 build and sell (on easy payments) several nice cottage homes, and make some farm loans, and city loans, and sell some real estate, and continue to build on the foundation we already have for the BIGGEST and best dividend-paying financial institution in Paris,—an institution, which in due time will have probably ten million dollars in assets, brought into this city from over Texas, Arkansas, Oklahoma, and possibly other states.

The biggest "building and loan" concern now doing business in Texas, with over $30,000,000 assets and over 40,000 stock holders, has its home office in a little town up in Missouri, about one-third the size of Paris. It don't make so much difference about the size of the town as it does about the "size" of the men behind the institution. Any of you who may be interested in seeing Paris have a multi-million financial corporation, with a charter that enables it to do ANYTHING that may be for the good of Paris,—and with a PLAN that reasonably assures at least TWICE what the ordinary "building and loan" concern can earn, are invited to investigate the plans of Good Home Investment & Loan Company. My opinion is that each $200 invested in the stock of this Company, at this time, will give a return of $1000 in cash, in 10 years.

Respectfully,
W. J. MINTON

Stanworth Speaks On Debt to Jews

Sunday morning at the First Presbyterian church Dr. Samuel Stanworth spoke on "Our Debt to the Jews," using as his text the promise of Abraham in Genesis 12:3, "In thee shall all families of the earth be blessed."

Dr. Stanworth showed that the man, have always been benefited by the few and that there has never been one whose line has contributed more to the world than that of Abraham. Today we find the Jews a people without a home, yet their national traits and characteristics are permanent and indestructible. The Jew challenges the respect and admiration of every nation.

"Our debt to the Jews is primarily religious. God selected that race for His own purpose. They have kept alive the worship of the one true God. They have penned the imperishable record of God's will to men and given to us the scripture which we hold as sacred. And they have been the channel through which came the long-looked- for Messiah.

"And when we put these together, we begin to see in some measure that 'in him and his seed shall all nations of the earth be blessed."

The musical program included the following special numbers: "God Shall Wash Away All Tears" (Car$_o$ Roma), sung by Mr. Fike; "My Task" (Ashford), by Mrs. Burgess; and the anthem, "Lord God, Speak to Me" (Lorenz), by Miss Katherin$_e$ Jones.Mrs. Winters, Mr. Fike, and the choir.

Mr. Phillips discussed for his morning topic "The Character of Jesus."

"People often get character confused with reputation in meaning but their meanings differ widely he declared. "Reputation is what people think you are while character is what you really are. Some of the virtues of Jesus as being holy, righteous, true, just, innocent meek and lowly, obedient and of the forgiving spirit."

His subject for the evening hour was "Value" This message based on Mark, 8:36 "For what based on Mark 8:36 "Fod what shall it profit a man if he shall gain the whole world and lose his own soul?" He said that God places a value on the soul of man It is worth more than all the world.

"Often times we read of thousands of dollars worth of property and many lives being destroyed by fire, or storms that invade countries bringing grief and desolation But the saddest of all is the loss of the soul which God gave man Man's only hope for salvation is through Christ."

The Junior Christian Endeavor met with Miss Pearl Downing in charge and an excellent meeting was reported.

The Senior Endeavor met with Miss Maydel Cooper as leader and a good program was rendered and was appreciated by all present.

THEATRES

At the Plaza Today

Filled with the romance and drama of Russia after the fall of the czar, "The Volga Boatman," Cecil B. De Mille's second independent production for Producers Distributing Corporation release, strikes out into a hitherto unexplored vein of strongly entertaining photoplay background. The great song, "The Volga Boatmen" served as the inspiration for the story which Konrad Bercovici wrote for the screen appearing today at the Plaza. Leonore J. Coffee made the film adaptation.

The tale is laid in Russia at the time of the outbreak of strife between the Red Army and the White Army of the aristocrats. The dramatic interest centers in the contacts between Elinor Fair, a lovely aristocrat, and William Boyd, a sweat-stained, toil-laden boatman of the Volga. Theodore Kosloff plays a striking dumb blacksmith, Victor Varconi, an imperious prince and Julia Faye an exotic Tartar character. Robert Edeson is given one of his interesting character roles, as the last of a great line of Russian land owners.

The story starts on the Volga, before the revolution, and then swings into its stride when the overturning of the czar makes the whole nation a seething caldron of upheaval. Servant becomes master, and master—servant. The highlight of the picture is a great ball of the aristocrats interrupted by the shells of the Reds. Later we see the aristocrats in their silks and satins forced into the harness formerly worn by the Volga boatmen.

The story points no moral and takes no sides. It is intended simply as a love story of a man and a woman played against the most interesting tapestry of recent history.

Miss Annabel Dunlap, daughter of Mrs. Pat Dunlap, and J. E. Bush of Dallas were married Sunday afternoon at 1:30 at the home of the bride's mother, 179 North Main street. Dr. W. M. Wright, pastor of the First Baptist church, officiated.

The home was attractively decorated with chrysanthemums and potted ferns, a bank of the flowers forming the background for the ceremony.

Miss Winnie Wiggs, accompanied by Miss Thetis Williams, sang DeKoven's "O Promise Me" and Cadman's "At Dawning," prior to the ceremony.

The brid$_e$ wore a becoming dark blue crepe trimmed in beige, with accessories to match. Her hat was of gold cloth, and she carried a lovely shower bouquet of bride's roses. The gift of the groom was a handsom$_e$ platinum pin.

Guests at the wedding included immediate relatives and friends, among them Marshall Bush of Dallas, brother of the groom, the Misses Weaver and Mrs. Weaver of Clarksville, C. H. Lemaster of Clarksville, and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Holloway of Deport.

YOUR HOME SHOULD COME FIRST

"Intimate Corners"

What a word of suggestion in those two words—what a wealth of possibilities in their realization.

Step into a home—at first glance it warms to you and envelops you in its hospitable "homeliness"—or it repels you with its cold, hard lines and "uncomfortable atmosphere."

The personality of the family is most directly represented in its home. And the strange part of it all is, in most cases the artistic, comfortable, "liveable" home costs no more to furnish than the stiff, uncompromising, every-thing-in-a-row place to live in.

Just a little "loosening up" and re-arrangement of pieces—the addition of a little table here, a piece of bric-a-brac there—a cozy lamp—an easy chair—involving no great expense but adding so much to the real pleasure of living, for after all the greatest pleasure life has to offer is in the home.

Let us help you arrange some "intimate corners" in your home—with pieces you already have, or with new pieces from our splendid stocks. Our decorators will welcome the opportunity to study your rooms and make suggestions as to the rearrangement of your furniture so as to take advantage of all the possibilities of the interior architecture of your house, and also will be glad to suggest perhaps a piece here or there to complete the proper ensemble.

Your living room, den, library, or parlor, will quickly respond to the influence of the "intimate corner" idea and Rodgers-Wade are making a feature of this phase of home furnishings and decoration.

We will be delighted to discuss this interesting uestion with you.

FIVE-DAY LABOR AND WAGES

ETHELBERT STEWART, statistician of the Department of Labor, disagrees with Judge E. H. Gary.

Judge Gary says it stands to reason that a workman cannot produce as much in five days as in six. Statistician Stewart says a workman, in 1925, not only could but did produce more in five days than he could in six in 1924. At least this is true of eight important American industries which Stewart has just finished investigating.

The credit goes to improved methods and labor saving machinery. The automobile industry has increased more—200 per cent—in output per man-hour than any other studied. At the foot of the list is the boot and shoe industry, with 16.5 per cent. The other six vary from 26 to 60 per cent.

Statistician Stewart began his inquiry following the American Federation of Labor convention in 1925. Before that, labor had professed itself satisfied with a "living wage." The 1925 convention announced that, thenceforward, it must share in the profits from the immense increase in industry's efficiency. It must have not only a "living wage," but, if it was producing correspondingly more, something over.

To determine what was a "living wage" it was necessary to consider the wage with the cost of living. This having been answered, it was easy to determine what Stewart calls the "real wage."

When labor made its new declaration in 1925, however, it became essential to ascertain besides the wage and what it will buy, how much the workman produces in return.

It was an almost uncharted field, but the statistician has pushed his researches energetically. His conclusion thus far is that the five-day week is no mere experiment with Henry Ford, but that it is coming in the industries generally.

FOR MONEY'S SAKE

CLASSICISTS of the old educational school who have wept to see Virgil, Caesar, Cicero and Ovid ejected from school curriculums will welcome some facts about languages recently given publicity.

Two and one-quarter billions of dollars worth of business are done between America and foreign nations yearly, says this report.

This vast business is done largely in foreign tongues. More than 65 per cent of the words used in trade with Spain, France, Italy and Germany are words based on the Latin, and easily intelligible to the Latin student.

It is significant of this age that any attempt to turn youth back to the classics must be based on commercial interests.

"Learn Latin and Greek—Make More Money!" is the only slogan which today's youth can understand.

Yesterday's youth may have responded to a plea which said, "Drink deeply of the Pierian spring, and all of earth's grandeurs and beauties shall be opened to you!"—but no longer.

Do not blame youth! Blame a changing social scheme.

Youth of yesterday, tilling its own fields, reaping its own grain, giving itself by brawn all the necessities of life, did not have to grope for nickels with such acumen.

ON THE PATHWAY TO HEALTH

TREMENDOUS strides have been made since 1907, when an active campaign was started against tuberculosis in this country. The death rate from the dreaded "white plague" has been cut 55 per cent, and that means an annual saving in the year of 1926 of 100,000 lives.

From an economic viewpoint the savings have been enormous. The loss from tuberculosis, in sickness and death, in 1907 was estimated at $550,000,000. The loss last year would have been a billion dollars if the 1907 rate applied during 1925.

It is a triumph to medicine. It is more than that; it is a triumph to neighborly influence and example. In the old town hall, the friendly meeting place, wherever friends gathered, the campaign has been carried on.

If we are to escape the fates of the Chinese, Mayans, Aztecs and Incas we must live as neighbors. The fundamentals of health are habits and customs, and the circle in which we move is no more elevated than any of its members. Disease is an incident that proves the power of many clean and friendly hands.

WHY NOT MAKE A CHOICE?

A MOVIE actress divorced her second husband recently. In her statements to the newspapers she said that her career called for the separation; that she found it more important than married life.

When the same actress divorced her first husband she gave substantially the same reason—her career.

Wouldn't you think that pretty soon she'd find out which really was the more important to her and would stick to one or the other?

WASHINGTON AND HUGHES

RUPERT HUGHES, in a biography, pictures George Washington as a young man unlucky at cards, love, war and politics. The father of his country was "a swell" from his 16th year on, Hughes writes, and no youths of such after fame took his puppy love more seriously than Washington.

The only lesson we can draw from Hughes' picture of the father of his country is that we are all human, after all.

We had always looked upon George Washington as an early American deity. It is interesting to know that he, too, according to Hughes, was very like the rest of us.

PRIDE IN OURSELVES

INVARIABLY, as men banded together do wholesale thinking, turning out this wholesale thinking in the way of "resolutions"—at conventions and such—the brains of the individuals shrink and dwindle away.

So says Dr. Charles Gray Shaw professor of philosophy at New York University.

Whether the professor is right or wrong, whether we agree or disagree, a nice point would be the individual man's reaction to this supposed act.

Would this individual man, whose brain is growing skinnier and skinnier, rejoice in the increasing strength of mankind as a whole, or would he mourn the passing of his own individual greatness?

The latter, of course. For without a personal premium placed on self, call it egotism, or call it what you will, individuals never could have succeeded to the point where as units they compose strong and powerful associations.

It is only pride in self that spurs the race on, and if this pride is to be annihilated what lies ahead for any of us?

WHAT OTHERS SAY

A POPULAR VISITOR

From Brownwood Bulletin:

HUNDREDS of American towns and cities are sending telegrams to Queen Marie of Rumania, urging her to change her itinerary so as to permit her to visit each of them and see the unparalleled splendors of each community. Almost every town and city has something of which it is especially proud—some distinctive resource or development that leads all other local assets from the standpoint of civic interest—and with genuine interest these towns and cities are inviting the royal visitor to "come and see."

Of course, the Queen will be unable to accept these invitations, although she probably would enjoy a visit to each city which has proffered its hospitality. Her stay in America will be so brief that she will be unable to see all of this country—a country which no doubt appears to her to be limitless in its extent; so that she must follow a well prepared program, taking her to some of the many important points and permitting her to see some of the many interesting sights in this new world which she is visiting for the first time.

It is not mere snobbery that has caused the people to be so eager to please this royal visitor. Kings and queens mean little to the average American, but this queen is of a distinctive type and is honored because of her womanly charm and because of the romantic story of the last few years of her life. The people like to think of her heroic sacrifices for her country and its people during the war; of her many deeds of kindness and of charity; of her great sympathy for the unfortunate and the suffering the world over; of her oft-demonstrated friendliness toward America and Americans. It is not merely to royalty that the people of the United States are now bowing, but to Queen Marie of Rumania; it is not to a queen, but to a queenly woman that America is extending its hospitality. Surely the visiting queen can perceive this; and if she can, certanly she will all the more enjoy her visit to this wonderful new country.

TO SIMPLE FOR GERMANY

From New York Times:

OUR diplomats are now again to be left alone in wearing "the simple dress of an American citizen." The Germans have been trying to get along with this republican simplicity, in place of the old gorgeous diplomatic uniform, but have given it up. From Berlin it is announced that a new official garb is to be worn by Germans in the diplomatic service, including the cocked hat, a black swallow coat with gold buttons and lace, and black trousers. Whether the latter are to be cut as knee breeches is not stated.

It appears that German pride has not been able to stomach having German diplomats at public functions mistaken as either American diplomats or waiters. The ordinary evening clothes expose them to both these affronts. With these they have not had the long training of our ambassadors and ministers in putting up. So far as our own emissaries are concerned, they have had to grin and bear it. An act of Congress directs them how to dress and their native stock of humor is counted upon to do the rest.

Some one should have told the German Foreign Office the story of Ambassador Choate in London. At a formal function, in his customary and prescribed evening dress, he was taken for a waiter by one of the guests, who said to him, "Call me a four-wheeler." Always ready to oblige, Mr. Choate said, "You are a four-wheeler." But perhaps this would not sound funny in German. It's no longer so very funny even in English.

Perhaps the singles cup should now bear an engraving, saying, "Lafayette, here I am!"—New York World.

Yet how Americans would guffaw if the British called a cricket match a "world series."—St. Paul Dispatch.

General Hertzog claims that South Africa should be as independent as Britain. This means that if he succeeds, South Africans will not be able to buy cigarets after 8 o'clock at night, except through automatic machines.—Punch.

Women are strange creatures. The white girls are paying as high as fifty dollars to have permanent waves put in their hair, while their more dusky sisters are willing to pay even more to have one removed.—The Argus.

Punch, London's famous weekly, will refuse liquor advertising. Now, to be consistent, should it not change its name?—Boston Transcript.

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

Five Cabinet Members Fly, But You Find No Planes in White House Garage

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
NEA Service Writer

WASHINGTON, Oct. 25.—Aviation is not for the president.

That is, not for the present president. If the late Col. Roosevelt were in the White House now it is safe to say that White House airplanes would be as much an established institution as White House automobiles. Col. Roosevelt, II, as everybody knows, is a chronic flyer.

President Coolidge, however, is cautious. There will be no planes in the White House garage as long as he is chief executive.

Some future president may take chances in the heavens, but not this one. Secret service men are no protection in a plane crash.

Cabinet members, seemingly, are not so fragile. At all events, several of them are experienced aerial travelers. Postmaster General New flies almost every day. He takes a plane as indifferently as the average man takes a taxi.

Secretary of War Davis is frequently aloft with army pilots. He can take a hand at the controls in an emergency. Secretary of Labor Davis always goes by plane when in a hurry to get somewhere. It saves time, he says, and he likes it.

He can't see that it isn't about as safe as any other means of locomotion.

Secretary of the Navy Wilbur takes an occasional flight. He doesn't do it as a pastime, like Secretary of War Davis, but whenever he has a trip to make, and a plane is available, he requisitions it.

Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's flying experience is limited to a voyage he made across the English channel on his last visit to Europe.

If Secretary of Commerce Hoover has indulged in any aviation he did it so unostentatiously that there is no record of it, but he refused, when asked, to tell if he had ever tried it.

Secretary of State Kellogg, Attorney General Sargent, Secretary of the Interior Work and Secretary of Agriculture Jardine frankly never have left terra firma in any more romantic a contrivance than an elevator.

Some of the undersecretaries are regular professionals, like Assistant Secretaries Davison, Warner and MacCracken, in charge of aviation respectively in the war, navy and commerce departments.

Assistant Secretary of War MacNider also does much flying, usually traveling by plane on tours of inspection.

IN NEW YORK

Chill winds come in from the Hudson, and it's cheaper to keep warm in the street than in the house. As the pushcarts bring an end to their day's trade they move away, one by one, leaving the empty crates in which came their wares. Tots, scarce able to toddle, have learned to watch such spare wood as cats watch a garbage can.

Glance along any East Side street once darkness has settled and you will see at least one such neighborhood fire to a block. Whole families gather about them. They are, for the most part, strangely quiet. Only the children prank about. The oldsters stand staring with hypnotized eyes upon the flames, saying nothing. Tired! As though finding some restful message in the crackling wood.

Here and there the pushcart men are burning their own kindling and their families are gathered about. There is little or no home life in the ghetto. This is a place of streets. Only the limp washing, hanging from the fire escapes, suggests life within.

Winter is near, and it is preceded by this brooding ominousness. When snow flies the fires will burn by day and by night. But the pushcarts will be there, blizzard or no. Barter goes on, in spite of weather.

In many an odd corner New York hides those eminently romantic shops.

A casual glance is always an invitation. There is the ever-present atmosphere of mystery.

Elsewhere the diamond shops display their grandest wares in their windows; the shops show the new styles and the costly coats—but in these one must prowl and inquire to find the gems.

Yet exchanges involving fortunes are made by those who trade in first editions and Americana. Just around the corner from the office in which these lines are penned is a funny little place where a hundred dollars is a mere down payment. Yet from the exterior one would expect to find the floor cluttered with two-bit bargain tables.

Recently in such an old book trade, a Gutenberg Bible brought more than a quarter of a million dollars.

And, quite recently, Dr. Otto Vollbehr, the German collector who made the purchase, brought to America 2000 of his collection of 15,000 rare books. He became interested in collecting many years ago when, upon trip around the world, he found himself in San Francisco and saw the famous Sutro collection.

Not long afterward he was in a train wreck and was left in such a highly nervous state that physicians ordered him to take up some hobby to occupy his mind. He turned to old books, and trades in sums that sound like bank clearings.

Each winter finds him in California negotiating with the Huntington library, valued at millions.

Easy to Avoid Gout by Selecting Food

It is surprising how many of our physical disabilities can be traced to bad eating habits. When we learn how to eat, what to eat and when to eat we shall be far out on the road to good health and long life.

Perhaps the first eating lesson should be to find out what not to eat and when not to eat. Few of our troubles come from lack of food.

It is certainly true of eating that there can be "too much of a good thing." Temperance in eating is just as important as another form of temperance of which we hear a great deal more.

One of the diseases founded on appetite is gout. It is almost as common today in America as it used to be in England. This is not due to the eating of roast beef by any means, but to the overeating of many other foods.

It is the popular idea, of course, that beef-eating is the great causative factor. As a matter of fact, any food rich in what scientists call "purines" may be harmful to the gouty person.

Purines are chemical compounds which are found in the tissues of plants and animals. Uric acid is a common example. Caffeine, which occurs in tea and coffee, and the bromine found in tea and cocoa are other forms of purines.

Fruits, butter, cream, cheese, ice, milk, bread, eggs, oatmeal and other foods contain no purines. Beef extract, bouillons, livers, sweetbreads, brain and kidneys are rich in purines. Beef contains less than half as large a percentage of purines as liver.

This little lesson, giving examples of purine-free foods and foods containing high percentage of purines, should be taken to heart by the person who has a tendency to gout. A little attention to the diet will go far toward warding off this painful disease.

There are several forms of gout. What the doctors call "acute gout" is the periodical occurrence of severe pain, swelling and redness in the joints of the hands and feet, particularly of the big toe.

We may laugh about the gout, but we won't laugh if we have it. On the contrary, the victim of gout is cross and irritable. His digestion is upset. He can't sleep for the pain, and is down and out for several days.

When the local symptoms disappear there may be vomiting, difficult breathing, pain in the heart, palpitation, headaches and fainting spells. The local trouble may be overshadowed by these more serious symptoms.

The effects of chronic gout are familiar to everybody. The enlarged and knotty joints and deformities of the fingers are symptoms of this ailment.

Certain skin and eye troubles, cramps and some forms of kidney trouble may be traced to gout.

In the acute form the victim is put to bed and kept quiet. The sore foot is elevated and kept warm. Simple food, rest and quiet will soon relieve the symptoms. The family doctor will select and prescribe the medicine.

Certain mineral waters may be helpful. But the important thing is to be warned and to begin at once to avoid the foods rich in purines. Temperate eating and drinking will go far toward guarding against further attacks, which are sure to come unless care is exercised.

The WOMAN'S DAY

by Allene Sumner

The fashion mavens may get a hint from this. Much of the hue and cry about the college co-eds who are said to have staged a pajama dancing party in the aisles of a sleeper following a football game, seems to rise from the fact that the co-eds woro pajamas instead of old-fashioned nighties, possibly pink flannel with high necks and rick-rack braided cuffs.

Before sheik Able Broomfield, dog driver of the Bering Sea, takes a New York girl for his bride, he insists on fattening her for one year on seal blubber. Able, recently arrived from the great frozen spaces, is rumored to be nothing short of aghast at the spindling framework of such flappers as he has seen running in and out of subways on an elongated expanse of nude hose. "Look like hungry Eskimo boys," says Able.

I am inclined to think that the thumbs-down-little-skinny-girl attitude of Able, the wife hunter, may mean much more to the emaciated flapperette than the grave words of men of science telling her that she is slowly starving herself to death and becoming a ready victim for anemia and other pernicious ailments.

Queen Mary of England prefers dusting to queening, we are told in a dispatch from London which tells of Queen Mary of All the Britains helping the servants put to rights the Sandringham Palace.

And she liked the dusting so much that she forgot her lunch, they say.

I'm inclined to believe, however, that this picture of Queen Mary, the duster, did not go over so big in all the Britains as the picture of Cal Coolidge, hay forker, goes over in these United States of America.

Something about a monarchy which wants its royalty royal, something to gape at as beings apart from the common herd!

Sheer grief, pathos, and sobbing tragedy stalk through the soul of James Oliver Curwood, novelist, who pens these poignant lines in a current magazine—

"In sacrificing to an ugly fad the most beautiful of all things given to women, your crowning glory of hair, you have perpetrated the greatest atrocity against femininity and the fitness and beauty of things known in the history of womankind!!"

Funny thing is that he found two women with long hair to illustrate his scathing denunciation. One of 'em looks exactly like an ad for Herb Juice—It Grows Hair!

Girls with dark soulful orbs and raven tresses are certainly in luck if they can buy a new dress or coat or suit this fall, for the very best of the new fall colors is red in a dozen different guises—purple-red, henna-red, brick-red, wine-red, mahogany-red, and just plain red.

One of the most interesting pictures snapped in a long time is the one of Suzanne Lenglen, queen of the tennis net, meeting Queen Mary of England. Queen Mary's frock covers her ankles and comes almost to the regal toes. Her beplumed hat is perched well forward and sets upon a coil of regal hair. Long kid gloves hug the regal arms to the elbows. A normal waistline belt tied snugly about the queenly hips. Miss Lenglen wears knee-length skirt, sleeveless sports jacket, and her hair looks bobbed, if it isn't.

We hear much about queens and kings setting fashion styles, which accounts perhaps, for the large number of dowdy English women. We Americans should give thanks for a modish First Lady, although I can't quite imagine America ever taking the style habits of her First Lady seriously enough to copy them!

STUDY MARS FOR SIGNS OF HUMANS

Position of Planet Now Makes it Favorable for Inspection by Scientists

WILLIAMS BAY, Wis. Oct. 25 In the early hours Saturday morning astronomers and laymen began their biennial study of the neighboring planet of Mars for signs of living Martians.

Last night the path of the moon brought it close to the brilliant red star, and tomorrow night, Mars will be closest to the earth in its two year orbit. In August, 1924, Mars was about seven million miles closer than it will be this month, but the planet will be much higher above the horizon this time and hence more easily studied.

Seen With Naked Eye

The earth and Mars will be but 42,600,000 miles apart on Oct. 27, and while Mars will then appear only one-hundredth as large as the moon, it will be easily visible without a telescope.

At midnight on Nov. 1, Mars will be very close to the zenith for observers in the middle west, and three days later observers will have 14 hours to study the planet, for that night will be "in opposition," as the astronomers say, to the sun, or on the opposite side of the earth from the sun.

Some Discoveries Possible

"It is not possible to predict that new discoveries of importance will be made this fall," said Prof. Edwin B. Frost, of the Yerkes Observatory here, "but when the weather is favorable, the planet will be carefully studied. The most important results obtained in 1924 showed that the dark spots of the planet, supposed to be water or swamps, radiated more heat than the bright reddish portions which are supposed to be desert areas. This has not yet been explained.

"It also was shown that while the temperature there might rise above the freezing point of water during the daytime, it must fall perhaps as much as 150 Fahrenheit degrees during the Martian night. Such extremes would make it difficult or impossible for plants and animals such as are known on the earth, to exist on Mars."

Through a new photographic apparatus it is hoped to obtain good pictures of about a quarter of an inch in diameter, of the planet at its closest approach to the earth.

Shredded Wheat Process Has Local Demonstration

The artual process in the manufacture of Shredded Wheat biscuits the popular breakfast food, as well as new methods of serving, is being demonstrated at a number of Paris grocery stores. Four machines which shred the steamed and mostened grains of wheat are being operated at four stores today and during the next two weeks similar demonstrations will be made at scheduled times at other stores. Advertisements in The News each day during this time will tell at which stores the demonstrations for the day are being carried on, one advertisement apearing in today's edition.

The whole grains of wheat are steam cooked for 45 minutes, ground through a shredding then baked in miniature ovens at the stores. The steaming process both slightly moistens the wheat and reduces the starch content of the grain.

A number of different methods of serving the breakfast food, especially adapted for winter use, are shown, among them being Shredded Wheat porridge. The porridge is made by merely placing the desired amount of Shredded Wheat biscuit in a cooking utensel containing boiling water and stirring it until it quickly boils to the proper thickness.

Harold Davis of San Antonio, who is in charge of the four demonstrating machines invites the public to witness these demonstrations which are continuous throughout the day. He declares that in the Shredded Wheat product is all the nutriment of the whole wheat, with absolutely none of the vitamins removed in the cooking process.

Loss of Appetite
A DANGER SIGNAL

Loss of appetite is a sure sign of failing health. Everyone knows that something is wrong—but what? Nine times out of ten it is the stomach, bowels, kidneys or liver. When the digestive and eliminative organs are working properly, Nature demands food and one eats with a relish and feels well.
Lyko, the great general tonic, has done miracles for thousands of ailing men and women. It contains the necessary ingredients to aid digestion, prevent constipation, and keep the kidneys and liver in a healthy, active condition. Go to your druggist today and get a bottle. Let one trial prove to you the merit of this wonderful tonic. Why continue to suffer when relief is so near at hand?
Found Lyko Great for Digestion and Liver
W. L. Lawler, of Alabama, says: "This is one of the greatest tonics for vitality, digestion and liver trouble—a general rebuilder for run-down persons. It made me an entirely new man at 58. I feel only 30 years old today."
Could Hardly Walk—Now at Work
Mitchell Murray, of Missouri, writes: "When I began to take Lyko I was so weak I could hardly walk across the room. Now I am able to do a good day's work and my neighbors are surprised at the effect."

Ft. Worth Couple Saved Years of Suffering
Both Wife and Husband Gladly Credit Tanlac With Remarkable Properties as Tonic and Health Restorative

What a tragic thing it is when man and wife go through life together, rear their children to success and happiness, and then find ill health descending on one of the loving pair!
This situation confronted the family of Thomas Riley, retired stockman—the beloved "Uncle Tom" of the entire neighborhood around 1304 Vernon Castle Boulevard, Ft. Worth, Texas—when his wife Bridget began to break down in 1922.
"I lost my appetite," writes Mrs. Riley, "and when I did eat I suffered a great deal from indigestion. I frequently had splitting headaches, couldn't sleep well, and was nervous. Nothing tasted good to me—not even water. I lost energy and ambition, and had to give up housework.
"When I was down flat on my back, my daughter, Mrs. Annie Croughen, insisted that I try Tanlac. Before I had finished the first bottle, I was back on my feet and able to do all my housework. My appetite picked up. Nervousness disappeared. I gained 10 lbs. and felt like a new person."
Mr. Riley, with muscles of steel even at his age, took Tanlac at the first touch of rheumatism, and looks as if he had never had an ill in his life.
Texas is full of men and women who have taken Tanlac at the right time and are now enjoying the blessings of good health and strength. Tanlac is Nature's remedy, made from roots, barks and herbs. If you have need of a tonic and restorative, ask your druggist for Tanlac—today!—Adv.

CHAPTER XXXII

To Faith, cowering against Bob Hathaway, covering her scarlet face with trembling hands, it seemed that the grinning face of the Irish policeman who rode with them, swaying jauntily from the running board of George Pruitt's car, would be forever engraved on her memory as the most horrible human gargoyle she had ever seen.

On the front seat, Cherry was huddled, too, like a large-eyed, frightened kitten. Faith could hear her monotonous wailing bleat!

"They won't put me in jail will they, George? Don't let them put me in jail, George. Say something, George! Don't sit there like a frozen-faced Indian!! George Oh, my God, I'm scared to death!"

"Shut up!" George Pruitt commanded in a low, harsh voice. Nothing more than a fine for disorderly conduct. Quit that whining! You make me so nervous I can't drive straight."

"Disorderly conduct! Oh, George! It'll kill Muggy, if this gets into the papers." Her little hands were clawing at his coat lapels.

Faith, her hands held tightly and comfortingly in Bob Hathaway's said nothing during that short nightmare drive to the police station. But just as George sparked his car, at the direction of the still grinning "cop", Bob whispered to her:

"Don't worry, dear. George and I'll fix it. It won't amount to much. You're not in this mess, you know. And Cherry can give an assumed name."

Chris Wiley's car, also chaperoned by a burly policeman who was not grinning, drew up just behind George Pruitt's, and the black haired, painted little vixen, Flo, sprang defiantly to the curb, bursting immediately into a vitriolic denunciation of the police force, the city government in general, Chris Wiley and Cherry Lane.

"Shut up, for the luvva Pete!" Chris Wiley, his dark, burnt-out handsome face ash-pale in the light of the street lamp, seized the girl's arm and hurried into the narrow entrance of the three-story brick building that housed the police station.

The two policemen who had escorted the party to police headquarters herded them into a bare inner room, with a curt promise that they'd be called in a minute. Then one left, apparently for a conference with the night chief but Bob Hathaway and George Pruitt sprang from their seats and followed him. Faith saw the officer hesitate, scratch the day-old stubble on his chin, then pocket something that George Pruitt was offering.

She breathed easier after that although both George and Bob left them alone with Chris Wiley and the terrible "Flo."

"I'll be dammed if I fix it for you," Faith heard Chris Wiley mutter in a harsh undertone to the defiant, hard-eyed girl. "You got yourself into this mess, now you can get out of it. And I won't say a word against the young lady you attacked—"

"Attacked! Huh!" Flo snorted loudly, her black eyes shooting venomous darts at the cowering, weeping Cherry. "You slay me honest, you slay me! She attacked me, and I'm here to tell the world! So that's the big-time girl friend! That's why—" she curled her lip with exaggerated disdain at Cherry. "I'm just your sometime and old time Mama! Well, listen, big boy, she goes down on the police blotter with little old Flo Riplay of North Second Street, and you can roll that under your tongue!"

"Oh, Faith!" Cherry moaned, burying her head despairingly in the mothering curve of Faith's shoulder. "If I get out of this, I'll never do a mean, selfish thing again as long as I live! I swear to God! Don't tell Muggy and Dad, Faith darling! Promise you won't tell—"

After a few minutes of low, earnest conversation the three disappeared again, to return after ten minutes, looking vastly relieved, almost jubilant.

"No charge! we're all dismissed." Bob Hathaway bent over Faith and spoke in a low, excited voice. "Night chief was pretty decent. Thank God, there were no reporters hanging around. You don't even get on the police blotter Cherry. Buck up! No real harm done, though the boys who arrested us proved rather stubborn."

"Say, Flo, better make yourself scarce at Sam Lee's after this," the grinning Irish policeman slouched over to the North Second Street girl and spoke with an easy insolent familiarity. "Might not pick up friends like this every time you go off on a tear. Soy 'Scuse me' now, to the little lady you pitched into—and beat it!"

"Aw, you slay me!" Flo flipped an impudent hand near his stubby Irish nose. "Come around—any time."

Miraculously, Cherry changed from a tear-streaked, frightened child into a pert little flapper, all smiles and glittering teeth and gleaming gold eyes.

"Thanks a million times, boys!" she sprang to her feet, and opened her vanity case, her eyes coquetting shamelessly with the flattered, grinning policeman. "I'll buy a whole bunch of tickets for the next policeman's ball."

As George drove the sedan swiftly toward Myrtle Street, Cherry gayety bubbled and frothed, and overflowed in jets of tinkling laughter.

"I was never so excited and thrilled in my life! Talk about adventure! And you boys were marvelous—simply a riot. Honestly I'd have died if my picture had gotten into the papers. The nerve of that little black-headed hussy! I guess that'll teach her not to try to associate with nice people! Wasn't she a scream? 'You slay me!" she mocked. "And poor old Faith—honestly honey, you looked like Salvation Nell, trying to save the noble gal! So noble and pure! Honestly it was funny, wasn't it George, you old corpse! You and Bob dashing nobly to the rescue—'Fireman, save my che-ild!' " She strangled with hysterical laughter.

"It wouldn't have been so funny if old Bob here hadn't used every ounce of pull to his name, and dragged in his Uncle Ralph Cluny's name to boot? Soon as he told the night chief that Mr. Ralph Cluny, the biggest criminal lawyer in the state was his uncle, it was all over but the shouting, and you're doing enough of that for the whole party! And you didn't seem to think it was a slapstick comedy when you were clinging to Faith and whining to her to get you out of the mess, and not to tell your parents!"

Oddly enough, at the gruff tenderness of George's words about her, Faith burst into hysterical weeping. But it was in Bob Hathaway's arms that she found comfort.

KNICKER CASE GETS CHANGE OF VENUE

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind. Oct. 25 (AP)—The Virginia Allen "knickers case" was sent to Floyd county for trial when called in Clark county circuit court here.

Counsel for the Jeffersonville Board of Education, which has barred the nine-year old girl from Fort Fulton school for more than a month because her mother, Mrs. Fayham Allen, sent her to school wearing knickers, obtained a change of venue on the ground that the citizens of Clark county had been prejudiced by newspaper articles about the case.

THE PAPERS SAY — By Knick

Can You Take a Bath With Your Clothes On?

That would be a ridiculous attempt, wouldn't it? You might get your face and hands clean, but that's about all.

Yet, it is just as sensible as to try to stop constipation with ordinary laxatives and purgatives that ONLY CLEAN OUT PART OF YOUR INTESTINES! You just can't do it that way!

There's a twenty-eight foot drainage canal, including your stomach, upper and lower intestines, that has got to be thoroughly cleared and washed out clean and pure before you are right again. That's why you only get temporary relief from salts, cascaras, oils and such things. They don't reach all this canal.

The thing to do is take KLOK-LAX. Its the new, improved method to STOP CONSTIPATION. Everybody's taking KLOK-LAX now. These little tablets are wonderful! Contain ingredients now recognized the world over to completely cleanse your system of all poisonous wastes that breed disease.

Take KLOK-LAX to-night at 9—in the morning you'll feel fine! When you are washed out clean inside, you'll be refreshed. All that old dull, heavy feeling will be gone. You'll feel alive with a hearty appetite—full of pep" and energy

Its easy to take—just KLOK-LAX with a swallow of water. No nausea—no griping—not a minute lost from work or play. KLOK-LAX is Nature's greatest aid to keep your system clean, sweet and active.

EAST TEXAS DAY AT COTTON PALACE

Composite Exhibit of East Texas to be Greatest of Kind Ever Assembled

LONGVIEW, Texas, Oct. 25.—Assurances from all parts of East Texas that Saturday, October 30, which has been designated as East Texas Day at the Waco Cotton Palace, will be a success comparable to that achieved at the Dallas Fair last Saturday, are being received by the East Texas Chamber of Commerce here.

Between 20,000 and 23,000 East Texans passed through the gates at the Dallas Fair last Saturday, and indications are that a large part of those will visit the Cotton Palace.

A special program, consisting of brief addresses by East Texans of state-wide prominence, and vocal and instrumental music is being arranged. This program will be broadcasted over the grounds by loud speaker, through the courtesy of the officials in charge of the Cotton Belt exhibit.

East Texas has arranged to send its best to the Cotton Palace in the form of a composite East Texas Exhibit, which is expected to be the greatest display of its character ever shown at a fair in Texas. Virtually every product of East Texas will be included.

East Texas C. of C. for Acreage Slash

LONGVIEW, Texas, Oct. 25.—Approval of the action determined upon at the Memphis cotton conference recently, when preliminary steps were taken to formulate a plan for financing a portion of this year's crop and holding it off the market for the time being, has been accorded by the East Texas Chamber of Commerce.

"The East Texas Chamber of Commerce will lend its active support to any plan for the relief of the cotton farmer which may be decided upon by the leading financiers, business man and agriculturists of the state," it was said at the executive offices today.

In connection with this movement to come to the aid of the cotton farmer, J. E. Stanford, agricultural director of the East Texas organization pointed out that while steps for relief are expedient and will alleviate the situation for the present, they cannot provide insurance against a recurrence next year. "The farmer himself must do that," Mr. Stanford said.

"Large cotton production with small production of food, feed and livestock inevitably brings low cotton prices and high prices for those commodities the cotton farmer is compelled to buy," Mr. Stanford asserted, "and is a constant threat to the economic balance of the South.

endorsement of banks, and the banks will not loan a dollar on cotton unless the farmer has already sold it to a cotton buyer, and whatever aid the banks are extending or are willing to extend is only helping the middleman and this will do no good towards helping the price of cotton.

"Cow, Sow and Hen"

"I am not overstating the facts and if any farmer doubts it just let him go down to the banks and try to get any money on his cotton on his farm or try to get any money from the Federal Reserve bank. I am not going to take the responsibility to advise at this time a reduction of twenty-five per cent of the cotton crop when I do not know and no one else knows the codition that will exist at planting time. What I would advise my farmer friends to do is to prepare to get themselves a cow, a sow and a hen. Live at home as much as possible and when we raise some cotton next year possibly we will not owe so many debts and then we can hold our cotton and not be forced to sell it until we are offered a fair price for it. What I want to emphasize to my farmer friends is that we are going to have to work out our own salvation. The price of cotton cannot be fixed by resolutions, but will be fixed by the ability of the farmer to hold as well as the amount of cotton he raises. Let's study our plan for the future and keep our heads cool, and when we have resolved what to do then will be time enough to announce some definite plan."

Women Tried for Murder at Hugo

Special to the News.

HUGO, Okla., Oct. 25.—Charged with murder in connection with the fatal shooting of her husband Dick Thurmond near Ft. Towson on Aug. 9, Mrs. Aryesha Thurmand went on trial in district court here today.

G. W. Bean, who was charged jointly with Mrs. Thurmond was found guilty by a jury here Saturday of shooting Thurmond and given a sentence of life imprisonment. Mrs. Thurmond obtained a separate trial.

The prosecution will place most emphasis upon an alledged confession in which Bean admitted the killing. Mrs. Thurmond, it is claimed, concurred in Bean's statements, admitting that she was a party to an agreement that her husband was to be killed that she might obtain his insurance and marry Bean. The confession was introduced as evidence in the trial of Bean.

Thurmond was killed by a shot fired through a window of his home as he was eating his evening meal in company with his wife and two children.

SICK HEADACHE

No Pleasure, Says Ohio Lady, to Go Places, Till She Took Black-Draught Which Brought Relief.

Langeville, Ohio.—"For years and years I suffered with severe headache," says Mrs. Jane Campbell, of this place. "It wasn't any pleasure for me to go places, for I came home with sick headache. If I went to church or to any social gathering or to town to shop, when I got back I would have these headaches and have to go to bed for a day or more, till I would just get out of heart and would not try to go.

"About 15 years ago I discovered that Black-Draught was good for these headaches. I began using it. I would take it two or three nights in succession if I felt the least bad, and it sure did wonders for me. It is about 14 years since I had sick headaches, and I can go places and really enjoy life. It surely is splendid."

Headache often is a symptom of constipation. The best relief is secured by treating the cause of the trouble and in such a case many people have been greatly helped by the use of Thedford's Black-Draught.

Lions Club Trio Receives Letters of Appreciation

Since its success in winning first place for the Sears-Roebuck state radio contest, the Lions trio has been receiving congratulations and expressions of appreciation from far and near and not the least of these was a word of praise from John Rosenfield, Jr., dramatic critic for the Dallas News. His review of the Saturday midnight frolic at the Palace theatre in Dallas, mentioned only three acts as being worthy ones, and of the trio, which he includes among these, he said, "The Lions Club trio of Paris, Texas, consisting of Dewey Lawrence, John Sturgeon and Earl Bassano, are first class harmonists." It is notable that they were the only amateurs on the program.

The trio, earlier in the evening, had broadcast a program from the Baker hotel studio of WFAA, which many Paris people and other fans heard with enjoyment.

Bassano, who served with the navy during the war, as a result of the trio's recent broadcast programs, has received a mesage of greeting and congratulations from two former shipmates from whom he had not heard in seven years.

Sturgeon had a card addressed to him here saying simply "Your 'Perfect Day' was the best thing I've heard on the air," with the sender's signature.

Still another letter was addressed to the trio from a war veteran in a rehabilitation hospital saying how much he had appreciated the trio's numbers at different times and expressing the hope that they would broadcast often.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25, (AP)—The cotton market opened barely steady today, at a decline of 8 to 15 points, January selling off to 12.25 and most active positions making new low ground for the movement and season under southern selling and renewed liquidation promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables.

Offerings were comparatively light, however, while there was some covering promoted by reports of a frost at a few points in the northern part of the belt, and a disposition to even up in advance of the government report.

The government report indicating a crop of 17,454,000 bales was above expectations and was followed by a good deal of liquidation, southern and local selling. Heavy trade buying was reported on scale-down orders, however, with a good deal of covering. After selling off to 12.10 for January, or 33 points net lower, and about 16 points below the low levels of last week, prices steadied. The government crop figures were nearly half a million bales above the recent average of private reports, but the ginnings of 8,722,066 bales reported to Oct. 18 were below the forecasts.

Further liquidation and some southern selling developed in the early afternoon, but the latter was less active than at the opening today, and prices held generally steady on further trade buying or covering.

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 25, (AP)—The cotton market was active and fluctuated freely today although the government forecast was considerably larger than the trade expected. The ginning total to October 18 was also quite large considering the lateness of the crop. The market opened 13 points down in sympathy with much lower cables than due and soon showed losses of 15 to 17 points. Before the government report was issued prices had rallied 14 to 17 points from the lows to about parallel with Saturday's close. The early response to the bureau's figures was a decline of only 33 to 35 points. This comparatively small drop attracted good buying and covering and by the middle of the afternoon prices had rallied 19 to 24 points from the lows. The market continued to advance in the late trading, making new highs, 42 to 44 points above the lows and closed very steady at net gains for the day of 4 to 12 points.

Fort Worth Livestock

FORT WORTH, Oct. 25, (AP)—Livestock receipts Monday were relatively liberal.

Although cattle supplies offered a fair selection, the assortment ran mostly to cows, with low costing cattle and stockers in the majority.

Packers received on direct billing about 675 hogs which were included in the day's total of 2,500 head. The fresh shipment gave killers close to 1,000 hogs, prior to making any purchases on the market.

Cottonseed Oil

NEW YORK, Oct. 25, (AP)—Cottonseed oil closed steady: prime summer yellow 8.30 to 9.00; prime crude 7.12½; January 8.83; February 8.95; March 9.05; April 9.12; May 9.15; October 8.30; November 8.55; Dec. 8.70. Sales 16,200.

Chicago Grain

CHICAGO, Oct. 25, (AP)—Active profit taking sales at the last led to a setback in wheat values today after the market had moved upward, helped by 2,015,000 bushels falling off in the United States wheat visible supply total. This was a larger decrease than expected, and was taken to indicate that this country's grain is moving rapidly into the hands of consumers. Lack of new export trade today, however, tended to restrict demand when prices bulged.

Wheat closed unsettled, ⅛ to 1 5-8 cents net lower, corn unchanged to 1-4 cent down, oats at a shade decline to 1-8 cent advance.

Council Considers League Petition

A petition was presented to the city council last night by the Civic League, asking that the city make some provision for the installation of a garbage removal system and also to provide for the flushing and cleaning of the plaza and abutting streets each Saturday night. The petition further asked that trash and paper containers be placed at suitable intervals around the plaza.

The petition was discussed by the council but no definite action was taken. It was referred to the sanitary committee for consideration and report.
